Walker, of Arkansas: "That each Association of this Confederation prepare a condensed history of its Association to be published in book form, two volumes to be furnished, one to be placed in the Confederate Museum at Richmond, Va., the other in Memorial Hall, New Orleans, La. Unanimously carried.

On call of the President for a report as to the progress being made relative to the presentation of the memorial to the U. C. Veterans, Mrs. Randolph stated that she did not think it would be possible to have the Memorial presented at this reunion. However, efforts will still be made to accomplish this object.

Mrs. Randolph then read the printed circular letter sent out by the U. D. C., and made another strong appeal to the Memorial Associations represented at the meeting, and hoped that every effort would be made to push the monument to an early completion, and recommended that we lay aside all other work till this is accomplished.

Mrs. Graham offered the following motion: "That a published account be given of the amounts already subscribed by the different cities and States to the Davis Monument fund now in the hands of the treasurer of that fund in Richmond, Va." This motion was seconded by Miss Hodgson and carried. Mrs. Randolph then agreed to send a list of contributors as far as she was able, and that in the future two books would be kept, one for the contributions through the Confederate Southern Memorial Association, and one for the U. D. C. and all amounts collected would be recorded in same for each Association. This was satisfactory, and Mrs. Graham accepted Mrs. Randolph's proposition.

Mrs. Behan then expressed her approval of the efforts being made to erect the Davis Monument and urged the Memorial Association to continue the good work which they had already commenced. The Association endorsed the movement.

Before the close of this session Mr. Beckwith was introduced. He came at the solicitation of the Ladies' Memorial Association of Petersburg, Va., to speak of the effort being made to preserve the "Old Blandford Church;" the Association of Petersburg proposed to rehabilitate the church so as to make it to every Southern State a non-sectarian mortuary memorial chapel, and suggests that each Camp and Association give three dollars to accomplish this work. Mr. Beckwith stated that Louisiana was the first to respond to the appeal and that a window for that State would be placed in the church.

An invitation was extended by Mrs. Basil Duke, who was also introduced during this session, to attend a reception to be given at the Galt House from 4 to 6 p. m., complimentary to Mrs. J. Addison Hayes, the daughter of President Davis.

The meeting then adjourned until Friday 10 a. m.

DAISY M. L. HODGSON, Sec'y.

Before the hour appointed for the next meeting a communication was received by the President from Mr. Frank Lobrano, stating that he had arranged with Adjutant General Moorman for an interview with General J. B. Gordon at the Reunion Hall at 10 a. m., June 1st, when our Memorial would be presented to the U. C. V. then assembled in convention. Notice was given that the meeting called for 10 a. m. would be postponed until 4 p. m. of that day.

The delegates were called together as many as it was possible to find in the limited time, and in a body proceeded to Reunion Hall where they were met by a committee of Veterans and provided with seats on the platform. The C. S. M. Association was formally recognized by the U. C. V. amid great applause. General Gordon expressed his hearty approval of the Southern Memorial Associations and said he would have the Memorial read at once. Col. Chas. Coffin of Ark., then came forward and in a most impressive manner read the following Memorial.

General John B. Gordon, Commander-in-chief United Confederate Veterans: Dear Sir:—Throughout the south are scattered memorial associations, who have not relinquished their original organization, and whose work is solely memorial and monumental.

These associations (some of which were formed as far back as 1865), by the most assiduous efforts, have removed from wayside and battle field our sacred dead, placed them in cemeteries, of our own, and builded monuments that will bear lasting testimony to the courage, endurance and patriotism of the Confederate soldier.

We bring to you more tangible demonstration of work done than any other organized body of southern people, men or women. We propose to organize or combine these memorial associations (embracing as nearly as possible every one in the south) into what we call a "Confederation of Memorial Associations." We are not willing to lose our identity as memorial associations, nor to merge ourselves into the younger organization, "The Daughters of the Confederacy." We hope by this federation to commemorate our efforts and stamp our work upon the hearts of those who come after us, and thereby insure its continuance.

We would esteem it a privilege and pleasure to have our delegates meet at the same place and time that the United Confederate Veterans hold their annual reunions if agreeable to them. Of course we do not ask a voice in their councils; but we would like to meet with them. Many of us are veterans—veterans as much as the gray, battle scarred old soldiers—though we bided at home; while they stood amid the smoke of battle, we stood amid the smoke of burning homes; when they fought we wept and prayed; when they were hungry, we had only a crust at home; when their clothes were wearing threadbare on the long and weary march, we were busy with wheel, and loom, and needle; when they were in peril on picket, we held tearful, prayerful vigils. Are we not veterans as well as they? Hoping this may meet with your approval and that of the body over which you preside, I am,

Very respectfully yours,

MRS. LIZZIE POLLARD,

President Southern Memorial Association, Fayetteville, Ark.

During the reading of the memorial there was frequent outbursts of applause and at the close of each sentence recalling the privations, courage and endurance of the women of the South during those trying times of war, the applause was deafening.

The Veterans gave the memorial their endorsement by a rising vote. Mrs. Randolph then obtained permission to address the Veterans, and in response to her stirring appeal in behalf of the Davis Monument, she received contributions and pledges from the U. C. V. camps and Memorial Associations and individuals. The ladies then retired to assemble in the Galt House Music Room at 4 p. m.

GALT HOUSE MUSIC ROOM, June 1, 1900, 4 P. M.

Association be incorporated in the State of Arkansas, in compliment to the Southern Memorial Association of Fayetteville, Ark., with whom originated the beautiful idea of the consolidation of Southern Memorial Associations, and that Miss Sue H. Walker with the following ladies, Mrs. J. D. Walker and Miss Julia A. Garside be appointed a committee to attend to this business. Adopted.

A vote of thanks was offered to Gen. V. Y. Cook, Col. Chas. Coffin of Arkansas, and Mr. Frank Lobrano of New Orleans for their successful effort in securing an audience for our delegates and for having the memorial presented through Gen. Gordon to the U. C. V. assembled in convention.
